

18/01/2005

To whomever it may concern.

I have recently had full upper, and partial lower, implants and bridgework done by Dr. Alex McIntosh and his Chief Assistant, Sarah Nicholson.

I had the full original surgery, upper and lower, done under sedation on the one day, and other than the initial needle prick experienced no pain on the day, and only mild pain for one or two days thereafter.

I was aware of everything being done, and being of a technical inclination, asked so many questions, which were always answered, that I could now probably do the job myself.

I am well satisfied with the result, I can eat anything now, although I do draw the line at removing crown-tops from beerbottles.

I always looked forward to my appointments with pleasure as I was always treated with courtesy and, better still, friendliness, by everyone on the premises. (Not a grouch anywhere!)

I would heartily recommend McIntosh Dental to anyone interested.